

MODERN DUPLEX IS NOW INSTALLED IN PROGRESS OFFICE

Combines Speed with Mechanical Perfection, Insures Readable Paper All the Time

Progress Readers Are Invited to Inspect New Plant, and to See the Machinery of Newspaper Making in Full Operation.

Progress readers cannot have failed to notice the wonderfully improved typographical appearance of the paper since Monday, when a new Duplex Web Perfecting press, of the latest type, took the place of the old equipment which made the paper anything but satisfactory to readers and advertisers, and to the men and women who were responsible for its every day appearance.

The press is one of the finest pieces of machinery of its kind in this section of the state. It is the very last word in modern printing machinery for the smaller city dailies, and it is improbable that a press like it is installed in a town in the state as small as Clearfield.

It is needless to review the conditions which made the installation of this press necessary. The Progress has always had an ambition to be as clean typographically, as it is in its news and editorial columns, and it was to accomplish this uniformity that the new machine was installed. The old printing equipment was traded in to the Duplex company in the purchase of the new press, and will not again be used by The Progress.

The new Duplex weighs a trifle over twelve tons, and rests on a concrete foundation ten by fourteen feet. There are more than five thousand parts to the machine from paper roll to folder. This does not mean that the machine is complicated, for its very bulk make necessary many parts which would not be required on one of lighter construction.

Roll fed, the press will print a four-, six-, or eight-page paper in a single run, at a speed of six thousand per hour. Unlike the old machine, the new press is a flat-bed—that is the forms are laid on the double bed of the press instead of being cast in cylindrical form and strapped onto the revolving bed of the old machine. This makes for both accuracy and speed, for the forms can be left open up to within ten minutes of press time without fear of delays because of complicated processes.

Each roll of paper for the new press weighs from four hundred to seven hundred pounds, depending upon whether it is for four, six or eight pages. Spread out, the roll would make a carpet almost to Curwensville, the rolls containing more than four miles of paper.

In addition to the new press, the Progress has just completed the installation of a Model K double magazine Linotype which adds greatly to news handling facility, and easily puts the paper in the lead of all the other papers in this section in the matter of mechanical equipment.

The Progress is justly proud of its new equipment, and cordially invites its friends to come and see it in operation. Press time is about four o'clock each day, and the run lasts a little more than half an hour, so if you call between these times you will see the machine in full operation.

BAND CONCERT AND ENTERTAINMENT IS COMPLETE SUCCESS

Large Crowd Attends First Presentation of Home Talent Show Last Night

Dick Leopold and Chorus of Young Girls Makes Hit in Song and Dance. "I want to Go Back to Michigan"—Minstrel Quartette Presents Side-Splitting Act.

Last evening the grand concert and musical entertainment by Leopold's Fifth Regiment band assisted by local talent under the auspices of the Clearfield Fire department, was presented before a well filled auditorium at the New Opera House. The entertainment was a grand success and surpassed all former efforts of the two organizations to present an interesting and pleasing program.

The first part of the program contained eight numbers by the band, but before the concert was over sixteen separate pieces had been played, to the delight of its hearers. The repertoire of the band was wide and varied and consisted of both classical and popular pieces. Such pieces as "The Hoosier Slide," "The Old Grey Mare," and "The Dazzler" were played for encores and made a great hit with the audience.

The following program was given by the band:
Overture "William Tell" Rossini
Cornet Duet
"The Friendly Rivals" Godfrey H. P. Bridge and L. C. Kester
Tone Poem "In Lover's Lane" Pryor
Patrol "I'm on My Way to Dublin" Lampie
Overture
"Morning Noon and Night" Surpe
Euphonium Solo
"Bride of the Waves" Clark
Hon. Henry I. Wilson
Sextette from Lucia Donizetti
Selection from Remick's 1916 Hits. Lampie

The second part of the entertainment was given by local talent under the auspices of the Clearfield Fire department. This part consisted of vaudeville, dancing and singing and a side-splitting act by the minstrel quartette.

The first number "I Want to go Back to Michigan" staged by Dick Leopold assisted by a chorus of young girls made the hit of the evening, being a very pretty act which was well presented by the young people. Dick sang the familiar song excellently which showed careful training. The chorus danced very gracefully and sang equilly as well.

The next number "Tell me Pretty Maiden" given by six young ladies and six young men, attired in picturesque costumes, was well acted, excellent talent was evidenced in their singing. Miss Mary Mitchell sang a delightful solo, which was much enjoyed by all her hearers.

The minstrel quartette, composed of David Ferguson, Malcolm Cox, Albert Kennard and Harold Knight, sang several old selections which never fail to delight Clearfield audiences. The quartette also presented a funny vaudeville act.

The second presentation of this performance will be given this evening to afford the people of town who could not attend last evening, an opportunity to hear and see this remarkable home talent concert and vaudeville. Tickets can be secured at the box office. Prices 25c, 50c, and 75c. Show will start at eight fifteen. As the proceeds of this show go for the benefit of two of Clearfield's most worthy institutions, a good turn out is desired.

FAIR CREEK YOUNG MAN BECOMES EXPERT RIFLEMAN

In an official bulletin issued by headquarters, United States Marine Corps, Washington, appears the name of John O. Fry, of Falls Creek, this county, as having qualified as an expert rifleman in that most interesting branch of the government service.

John, who is a son of Mrs. May Fry, Falls Creek, enlisted in the United States Marine Corps at its Chicago, Ill., recruiting station on September 2, 1914, and is now serving on being the U. S. S. Georgia, a first line battleship. As the Georgia is cruising over the seven seas, ready for a fight or a frolic, it is good to know that a former Clearfield County youth stands on her quarterdeck prepared to prove to the world, should the occasion arise, that the American man behind-the-gun is still the peer of them all.

QUO WARRANTO IN HOYT CASE BEFORE JUDGE BELL TODAY

Lowell Seeks to Compel Former Sealer of Weights and Measures to Give Up Office

Decision of Court Will End Controversy Over Important Office Filled By Retiring Commissioners.

Quo warranto proceedings brought by Thomas J. Lowell, appointed sealer of weights and measures to take the place made vacant by the ousting of J. S. Hoyt, to compel Hoyt to hand over to him the property and equipment furnished him by the old board of county commissioners upon his original appointment, were heard this morning before Judge Bell in the court reserved decision.

Hoyt was appointed to the office of sealer of weights and measures the day before the old board of commissioners retired from office. When the new board of commissioners took office, they ousted Hoyt on the grounds that he was illegally appointed and that the appointive power had the right to remove an officer from office and appointed Mr. Lowell to fill the office.

Mr. Hoyt contended that the commissioners were not justified in their act and refused to surrender the office to the new appointee. After Mr. Hoyt refused to hand over the books and papers of the office to him, Mr. Lowell started the proceedings in court to test the title of the office.

In the hearing this morning, Mr. Lowell was represented by the county solicitors, Cole and Hartwick, and A. D. Woodward. Hoyt was represented by A. H. Libb, W. C. Miller and J. P. O'Leary.

L. C. Norris, clerk to the county commissioners was the chief witness at the hearing. He read the minutes of the meetings of the commissioners at which the matter pertaining to the removal of Hoyt was brought up.

Hoyt and appoint Mr. Lowell to fill the vacancy.

The court has handed down no decision in the case. It is expected that the decision will be given Monday morning before Judge Bell leaves for Bedford where he will preside over that county court during next week.

Wilson Firm Despite Pleading of Leaders of House and Senate

Germany May Abandon Position which Seems to Lead to War. Asks U. S. Now For Definition of Phrases

CONGRESS WILL NOT TAKE ACTION NOW

Washington, Feb. 25. (By United Press.)—Arguments by the Speaker, Clark, Democratic house leader, Kitchin and Chairman Flood of the house foreign affairs committee today failed to move President Wilson from his policy toward Germany. After nearly an hour's conference the President and the house leader are still under disagreement on the question of warning Americans to stay off armed merchantmen. That no action would be taken by congress today at least was the upshot of the conference.

London, Feb. 25. (By United Press.)—Germany in her reply to the latest representations from America asked the United States to define defensive armaments, according to an unconfirmed Amsterdam dispatch received here today. A reply it is stated is enroute to Washington and should be delivered to the American state department within 48 hours and possibly 24 hours.

Official circles here accepted the report as an indication that Germany does not want to break with America and is preparing to yield. The German foreign office, according to the Amsterdam report, asked the United States to specify what size of a gun it deems necessary for defense of its ports. In this matter, American representatives, Germany asked from the American state department the exact definition of offensive and defensive armament. This may prove embarrassing to own us of belittling ships which have been entering American ports, the guns of which are comparatively large caliber.

The landing of the Pilgrims is celebrated at Plymouth in 1920, it will give people who visit that historic old town a chance to see it as it was 300 years ago. The Massachusetts state commission on the celebration visited here today and went over the 40 plans they have under consideration. At a meeting this afternoon the committee went over in detail all the plans they have set apart as practical and possible. A canvass of the members seems to indicate a general sentiment favoring the central feature of the celebration being a pageant at Plymouth, with a possible reproduction of it in Boston. Plans for a prize competition to be open to every artist in the country, for the production of new and finer examples of the major arts, are favored by the commission, and a prize of $10,000 for the best work probably will be offered. Wherever is finally decided it is certain that the original Plymouth town on Leyden Street will be reproduced, so those who come to the celebration may see Plymouth as it was when the Pilgrims landed there.

COME AND GIVE US THE "ONCE OVER."

As this column today is mainly about ourselves, it might just as well include an invitation to all our friends to visit The Progress in its new quarters opposite the post office. Most of the dirt has been cleared away, and a visit during the afternoon of any day, say about four o'clock, will give you a fairly good idea of how a newspaper is made. Come any day, at any time, and you will be most cordially welcome.

GOOD BOY, WOODROW.

The theory that some of our phantom statesmen are more concerned with conserving the hyphenated vote than they are with the honor and dignity of these United States of America impresses itself upon one with increasing force as senate and house leaders continue their importunities to the President to debase himself, his office and the people whose executive he is by warning Americans against venturing passage upon belligerent ships.

It will be to the everlasting credit of Woodrow Wilson if he meets this crisis within his own party as a man instead of as a Democrat; as a man who loves his country instead of a politician who sees only the main chance.

However large has loomed the doubt of Wilson's steadfastness and singleness of purpose, few have or will question the quality of his Americanism. Members of all parties will be proud of him as an American if he continues to hold out against the pusillanimous pleading of his fellow Democrats.

STRIKING THE HAPPY MEDIUM.

Three years ago The Progress started out with printing equipment entirely inadequate to a circulation which required more speed than is usually necessary in a country newspaper office. An old Cottrell flat bed press (which, of course, means nothing at all to the layman) struggled valiantly to put the paper out in time for early evening mails, and at the same time allow the forms to remain open to catch late local and telegraph news.

That condition was one extreme. Then we jumped heedlessly to the other by buying a second-hand high-speed Campbell rotary press, with stereotyping equipment and trouble concealed in every nut, gear and surface. With a possible speed of sixteen thousand per hour, this press was big enough for a circulation of twenty-five thousand. The stereotyping process, excellent when handled by expensive expert workmen, proved a failure in the hands of amateurs such as we were able to train here, and the final dismal failure of the Campbell is due as much to inexperience as it is to the condition of the machinery itself.

Now we have sent the Campbell off to the city, where it belongs. Our new equipment is what we believe to be the happy medium. It combines speed with simplicity and uniform excellence of product which can be kept uniform by pressmen who are not required to understand the intricacies of rotary machinery.

It is sincerely to be hoped that this is the happy medium. Experiment has been costly in money and in exhausting the patience of Progress readers and advertisers by turning out a faulty and unreadable newspaper. The press we now have is considered by those who know to be the ideal machine for newspapers of the size of The Progress. Of our own experience we know that it is dependable, and will produce a newspaper whose mechanical excellence can not be excelled by any newspaper press made.

So once again we are putting forth a strong effort to give Clearfield the kind of a newspaper the town deserves. It meant an investment of no inconsiderable sum of money, which was spent in full confidence that Clearfield wants a good, clean, wholesome newspaper that will be a credit to it at home and abroad. That is the kind of a paper we intend to produce—or measurably go broke in the attempt.

Today's Geographic Study of The Great European War Zone

The war in Mesopotamian lands has meant new interest to the many peoples and tribes in the great area immediately east of Suez. Even the Bedouins have come to figure in one way or another in the news of the hour. The National Geographic Society, of Washington, gives an interesting picture of their viewpoint upon the question of whether they are brigands and robbers or only a people enforcing laws which they have a right to make and execute. It says:

"Although the Bedouins claim themselves to be the descendants of Ishmael, whom the Angel of the Lord declared would be 'a wild man; his hand will be against every man, and every man's hand will be against him,' they declare themselves to be a peaceful people engaged only in collecting their legitimate dues from those who travel through their lands. While the hundreds of caravans which have been held up and deprived of their possessions will probably dissent from their view, that view is given here for what it is worth."

"The Bedouins contend that the desert is his land as much as America belongs to the Americans or England to the English. He reasons that he has as much right to levy a toll on all who travel his way as a Western government has to levy a tariff or to collect an excise tax.

"He contends that every caravan entering Bedouin territory can, by the payment of a proper fee, secure from the nearest Bedouin shiek a passport which will entitle it to safe passage through their territory. Failing to secure such a passport and to pay such a toll for the privilege of passing through the desert, the Bedouin asserts that the traveler puts in the same category with the smuggler, the bootlegger, and the moonshiner in our own country, and that his goods are as justly liable to confiscation as those of the smuggler and moonshiner in America."

"The Bedouins declare that the caravan owner not only can secure the right to pass through their territory, unmolested, but that he can even go further, and secure from them, for a proper fee, a nesceet which will protect him and his property while in the desert."

"Whether or not the viewpoint of the Bedouin in this matter is right is one of political theory and not of geographical fact. But whether right or wrong, the Bedouin, in his reasoning, in his history, and in his geographic situation, is only of the most interesting of all those whose lives have been affected by the great war."

Small Trachoma Hospitals Solution of Big Problem

The establishing of small trachoma hospitals in localities where this contagious disease of the eyes is prevalent presents the best solution of the trachoma problem, according to the statement contained in the annual report of the Surgeon General of the United States Public Health Service. The service now has five trachoma hospitals in the three states of Kentucky, Virginia and West Virginia, and so great has been the number of applicants for treatment that a waiting list has been established. In the past fiscal year 12,000 cases of trachoma have been treated, the larger portion of which were cured, while those in which a cure was not effected have been greatly improved and rendered harmless to their associates. The great majority of these trachoma patients were people who lived in remote sections far removed from medical assistance, and who, but for the hospital care and treatment provided would have remained victims of the disease practically the remainder of their lives.

"When it is considered," the report of the service states, "that thousands of persons suffering with trachoma, a dangerous contagious disease, would otherwise remain untreated, it is realized how far-reaching results have been obtained through these trachoma hospitals and the other public health work done in this connection. It would be impossible to estimate with any degree of accuracy the number of people who have been saved from contracting this communicable disease by thus removing these thousands of foci of infection."

In addition to treating persons with the disease the hospitals have been used for educational work. Doctors and nurses have visited the homes of the patients and have explained how to prevent the development and recurrence of the disease. One thousand, three hundred and eight such visits were made during the year in Kentucky alone. "It has taken some time," the report continues, "to educate the people afflicted with this disease to the importance of cleanliness and the use of simple hygienic measures in their daily life." That results have been obtained is evidenced by the noticeably better observance of hygienic precautions by those among whom the work has been done.

That results have been obtained is evidenced by the noticeably better observance of hygienic precautions by those among whom the work has been done.

In addition to the hospital work, surveys were made in 16 counties in Kentucky, especially among school children. Eighteen thousand and sixteen people were examined, 7 per cent. being found to have trachoma. Similar inspections in certain localities of Arizona, Alabama, and Florida resulted in finding the disease present in from three to six children out of every hundred. Periodic examination of school children for the disease and the exclusion of the afflicted from the public schools, are two of the recommendations the Public Health Service lays emphasis upon.

One of the special features of the trachoma work was the giving of lectures and clinics before medical societies in various counties where trachoma hospitals could not be established. Patients were operated upon in the presence of physicians and the most modern methods of treatment demonstrated. Throughout, the purpose has been to stimulate local interest in taking up the campaign to eradicate trachoma.

Fashion Hints By Margaret Mason

(Written For The United Press.)

At odds with the whole world you surely will be
If you don't don the odd looking things that you see
Now offered as fashionable "dernier cri."

New York, Feb. 25.—The odds and ends of the imminent sartorial season are bound to make both ends meet by making both ends odd. Just which end will be odder were hard to say since, though some of the hats are the quintessence, so too are some of the low down boots. Where a parasol is the height of novelty a pair of stockings may sound the depths of originality. A striking hand bag in the hand is offset by a lot of ruff stuff in the neck. Of all the mad conceits of a mad hatter the chapeau that has a life size chaunticleer, comb vattles and all roosting all over the crown and completely overshadowing the tiny turban brim, is undoubtedly the true poultry of millinery. Another quaint hat is shaped like a broad brimmed sailor with an under brim of straw and the upper part, crown and all, composed of inch wide grosgrain ribbons running from the edge of the brim to the top of the crown in alternating tints of old blue, old rose, yellow, purple and ecru. In the centre of the crown these ribbons come together in a long tassel of their own fringed lengths. A pair of shoes that absolutely kicks over all traces of conventionality is to be worn with an evening gown of violet net over an embroidered and spangled slip of green taffeta the shade of a tender young crocus shoot. The sensational boots are of violet kid with uppers of green taffeta ornately embroidered in sprays of spangled herbage. Stockings a mass of sequins up to the calf are odd stockings even if they do go in pairs. Another stocking that offers untold but not unwritten possibilities has your name, your favorite motto or pet expression embroidered in script on the instep. Why not have one's first name on the right stocking and the last name on the left? Think what a saving this would be of cards. One need only point her toes to be identified. Something new under the sun and over the daughter of Eve is a parasol of green edged in a vine of artificial rambler roses and leaves. Another one of Chinese yellow drops tiny blue tassels from the tip of each rib and has a tiny necklace of blue beads around the tip of its ferule. For a belle of fashion comes a bell of a bag. It is of silk and is ruffled out in the shape of a bell with a tassel at the end for a clapper. Undoubtedly this was designed for the woman who insists on carrying her rings in her hand bag. Up to her ears in ruffs and chokers of pastel tinted batiste is the spring maid and for here there is no escape from the cape of white or tatted batiste that starts as a collar and finishes down around the shoulders. It is called a nun collar and is unbecoming to none.

Some advertisers make the mistake of trying to crowd a page of type into a few inches.

If you buy a few inches in a newspaper don't try to make them carry a couple of hundred words. Newspaper readers will not wear strong glasses to read small type.

When you decide to advertise a certain article pick out its best points. Then briefly tell what they are. Emphasize in big type.

Will go Long Way Toward Determining
Lead in State and National Politics.

Chicago, Feb. 25.—One of the bitterest political campaigns in Chicago in recent years is closing with the aspirants for office making their final appeals to the 750,000 men and women voters who will select their candidates for aldermen at the primary election to be held Tuesday.

In the thirty-five wards of the city there are a total of 234 candidates for the aldermanic nominations. In all but seven of the wards there are at least two Republican candidates, representing the rival factions of the party. On the Republican side alone eighty-six men and one woman have entered the lists. On the Democratic ticket there are eighty-four candidates. The Socialists have thirty-two, including one woman, and a single loyal Progressive is in the running.

In all but eight or ten of the wards there are bitter factional feuds. Voters in the primaries are expected also to decide by their votes whether Mayor Thompson and his following are to be endorsed or the faction led by ex-Gov. Deneen put back into power. On the Democratic side the old rivalry between Roger Sullivan and ex-Mayor Carter H. Harrison for the party leadership is the dominant issue. It is expected that in the case of both the Republicans and the Democrats the results of the primaries will go a long way toward determining who shall have the lead in state and national politics.

In the first ward, which has been represented for more than twenty years by John J. Coughlin, popularly known as "the Bathhouse," and "Hinky Dink" McKenna, it is Coughlin's turn to stand for re-election. He will receive the Democratic nomination without opposition. On the Republican side William H. Schrader is contesting for the nomination with Hilda Johnson Haskins. Mrs. Haskins is putting up a spirited fight and she declares that if she wins the nomination she will lead "the Bathhouse" the fastest race that he has ever experienced in his whole career as a politician.

Big Business
Recognizes
Publicity.

By BREEN.

In latter years the biggest enterprises in this country have recognized the value of advertising. The men in charge of their advertising campaigns are paid splendid salaries. In fact, no branch of the business receives more attention. Publicity and advertising form the keynote of success.

If big business needs advertising doesn't small business need it?

Every man in business needs advertising. If his business is a success he needs advertising to keep it so. If his business is struggling liberal advertising will build it up.

STATE AIDS COUNTRY DOCTORS

The state has come to the aid of the country doctor. The hard-working practitioner in the rural districts, who travels innumerable miles over country roads in all kinds of weather to reach his patients by night or by day, has long served as an example of the overworked and underpaid professional man.

The rapid strides in modern medicine have made the laboratory an absolutely necessary aid to the physician. Doctors in the larger cities have easy access to laboratory facilities. The expense of equipment and the necessity for special training in laboratory work makes it impossible for the country doctor to maintain his own laboratory; at the same time he and his patients should be able to benefit by all that science can do.

Realizing this condition, Dr. Samuel G. Dixon, commissioner of health, has opened the state laboratory to the rural doctor for numerous classes of examinations, which are made without charge to the physician. Special containers for the shipment of specimens are provided by the State Department of Health and these are supplied to all physicians on request.

The value of thus placing the doctor in the rural districts on the basis with his city brother and giving him free access to a modern laboratory, has proved of the utmost value not only in the diagnosis and cure of existing cases, but in preventing the infection of others.

LEHIGH TO CELEBRATE FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY

Jubilee Will Make Commencement A Notable Occasion

South Bethlehem, Pa., Feb. 25.—Untouched by age, save a tone has added vigor and strength, Lehigh University can now contemplate "the splendid harvest of fifty years." A half-century of active work is rounding out and fitting observance of the golden jubilee will render the commencement season a notable occasion this year. Exercises commemorating the anniversary will be held the first week of June. A feature will be the reunion of the various classes from 1870 down to 1916.

Fifty years ago this month the Pennsylvania legislature passed an act incorporating Lehigh University. The founder of the university was Asa Packer, who began life as a poor boy and became a millionaire through his foresight in building adequate transportation lines to carry the coal from Lehigh Valley to market.

When in 1865 Mr. Packer gave $500,000 and 36 acres of land for the founding of a university in the Lehigh Valley, this was the largest gift that had ever offered to an educational institution. The purpose of the donor was to afford an advanced technical education free of charge. Ten years after his first gift he enlarged the domain of the university

CLEVELAND TEAM LEAVES SOON FOR WINTER TRAINING

Prospects Are Bright For 1916 Season as There Is Harmony Among Players

Team Stands Solidly Behind Manager Fohl—All Players are Determined to End Better This Coming Season Than They Did Last Year.

Cleveland, Feb. 25.—(By United Press.)—With the departure of some from here within the next 48 hours and the arrival at New Orleans of others already on their way, the Cleveland Indians will be ready Feb. 29 to sail into a month's stringent practice for the 1916 season. Heavens knows they need it. The in and out fielders will start work the 29th. For the last week eleven pitchers and four catchers have been limbering up at New Orleans under the direction of Manager Leo Fohl, who will start his second season as manager this year, and Ray Chapman, short-stop. Several things stand out prominently this year which augur well for the team. For the first time in years there is harmony within the club, players with quarrelsome attributes having been eliminated. The team stands solidly behind Fohl. The club is practically intact, and much new material taken on last year is somewhat seasoned, making possible, with the expected addition of three new players, a team that will play with pep and doggedness. The men are determined to finish better than they did last year, when they landed in 7th place. The team needs one more good pitcher, a second-string catcher, a second baseman and a third sacker. The addition of players to strengthen those spots would bolster the Indians into a first division team. It would be no surprise to fandom if Chick Gandil, Washington's first baseman, were added to the team, allowing Jay Kirtke to go to the outfield.

Harry Turner, crack utility infielder, probably will hold down second as usual, but he is so susceptible to injury that a good sub will have to be developed or purchased. Bill Wambagann, a youngster, looked good at the second sack last season and he may be used as relief for Turner. Walter Barabere is expected to start at third, as he worked well there last season. Joe Evans is fast around the third corner but inexperience may prevent his holding the job there except in emergencies.

Jack Graney, sun fielder and pinch hitter, will do garden work as usual, barring a recurrence of bad legs. Elmer Smith and Bobby Roth are other fielders who may land regular berths. The outfield is not particularly strong.

Al Colanore and Willie Mitchell, southpaw, are the chief standbys on the hurling force, with Steve O'Neill, veteran receiver. Aside from three games to be played with the Cincinnati Reds, the Indians will play no teams before the season opens. The barnstorming trip northward has been abandoned. The club consists of thirty men at present. There may not be so many a few weeks from now.

MODERN DUPLEX IS NOW INSTALLED IN PROGRESS OFFICE

Combines Speed with Mechanical Perfection, Insures Readable Paper All the Time

Progress Readers Are Invited to Inspect New Plant, and to See the Machinery of Newspaper Making in Full Operation.

Progress readers cannot have failed to notice the wonderfully improved typographical appearance of the paper since Monday, when a new Duplex Web Perfecting press, of the latest type, took the place of the old equipment which made the paper anything but satisfactory to readers and advertisers, and to the men and women who were responsible for its every day appearance.

The press is one of the finest pieces of machinery of its kind in this section of the state. It is the very last word in modern printing machinery for the smaller city dailies, and it is improbable that a press like it is installed in a town in the state as small as Clearfield.

It is needless to review the conditions which made the installation of this press necessary. The Progress has always had an ambition to be as clean typographically, as it is in its news and editorial columns, and it was to accomplish this uniformity that the new machine was installed. The old printing equipment was traded in to the Duplex company in the purchase of the new press, and will not again be used by The Progress.

The new Duplex weighs a trifle over twelve tons, and rests on a concrete foundation ten by fourteen feet. There are more than five thousand parts to the machine from paper roll to folder. This does not mean that the machine is complicated, for its very bulk make necessary many parts which would not be required on one of lighter construction.

Roll fed, the press will print a four-, six-, or eight-page paper in a single run, at a speed of six thousand per hour. Unlike the old machine, the new press is a flat-bed—that is the forms are laid on the double bed of the press instead of being cast in cylindrical form and strapped onto the revolving bed of the old machine. This makes for both accuracy and speed, for the forms can be left open up to within ten minutes of press time without fear of delays because of complicated processes.

Each roll of paper for the new press weighs from four hundred to seven hundred pounds, depending upon whether it is for four, six or eight pages. Spread out, the roll would make a carpet almost to Curwensville, the rolls containing more than four miles of paper.

In addition to the new press, the Progress has just completed the installation of a Model K double magazine Linotype which adds greatly to news handling facility, and easily puts the paper in the lead of all the other papers in this section in the matter of mechanical equipment.

The Progress is justly proud of its new equipment, and cordially invites its friends to come and see it in operation. Press time is about four o'clock each day, and the run lasts a little more than half an hour, so if you call between these times you will see the machine in full operation.

BAND CONCERT AND ENTERTAINMENT IS COMPLETE SUCCESS

Large Crowd Attends First Presentation of Home Talent Show Last Night

Dick Leopold and Chorus of Young Girls Makes Hit in Song and Dance. "I want to Go Back to Michigan"—Minstrel Quartette Presents Side-Splitting Act.

Last evening the grand concert and musical entertainment by Leopold's Fifth Regiment band assisted by local talent under the auspices of the Clearfield Fire department, was presented before a well filled auditorium at the New Opera House. The entertainment was a grand success and surpassed all former efforts of the two organizations to present an interesting and pleasing program.

The first part of the program contained eight numbers by the band, but before the concert was over sixteen separate pieces had been played, to the delight of its hearers. The repertoire of the band was wide and varied and consisted of both classical and popular pieces. Such pieces as "The Hoosier Slide," "The Old Grey Mare," and "The Dazzler" were played for encores and made a great hit with the audience.

The following program was given by the band:
Overture "William Tell" Rossini
Cornet Duet
"The Friendly Rivals" Godfrey H. P. Bridge and L. C. Kester
Tone Poem "In Lover's Lane" Pryor
Patrol "I'm on My Way to Dublin" Lampie
Overture
"Morning Noon and Night" Surpe
Euphonium Solo
"Bride of the Waves" Clark
Hon. Henry I. Wilson
Sextette from Lucia Donizetti
Selection from Remick's 1916 Hits. Lampie

The second part of the entertainment was given by local talent under the auspices of the Clearfield Fire department. This part consisted of vaudeville, dancing and singing and a side-splitting act by the minstrel quartette.

The first number "I Want to go Back to Michigan" staged by Dick Leopold assisted by a chorus of young girls made the hit of the evening, being a very pretty act which was well presented by the young people. Dick sang the familiar song excellently which showed careful training. The chorus danced very gracefully and sang equilly as well.

The next number "Tell me Pretty Maiden" given by six young ladies and six young men, attired in picturesque costumes, was well acted, excellent talent was evidenced in their singing. Miss Mary Mitchell sang a delightful solo, which was much enjoyed by all her hearers.

The minstrel quartette, composed of David Ferguson, Malcolm Cox, Albert Kennard and Harold Knight, sang several old selections which never fail to delight Clearfield audiences. The quartette also presented a funny vaudeville act.

The second presentation of this performance will be given this evening to afford the people of town who could not attend last evening, an opportunity to hear and see this remarkable home talent concert and vaudeville. Tickets can be secured at the box office. Prices 25c, 50c, and 75c. Show will start at eight fifteen. As the proceeds of this show go for the benefit of two of Clearfield's most worthy institutions, a good turn out is desired.

FAIR CREEK YOUNG MAN BECOMES EXPERT RIFLEMAN

In an official bulletin issued by headquarters, United States Marine Corps, Washington, appears the name of John O. Fry, of Falls Creek, this county, as having qualified as an expert rifleman in that most interesting branch of the government service.

John, who is a son of Mrs. Mary Fry, Falls Creek, enlisted in the United States Marine Corps at its Chicago, Ill., recruiting station on September 2, 1914, and is now serving on being the U. S. S. Georgia, a first line battleship. As the Georgia is cruising over the seven seas, ready for a fight or a frolic, it is good to know that a former Clearfield County youth stands on her quarterdeck prepared to prove to the world, should the occasion arise, that the American man behind-the-gun is still the peer of them all.

QUO WARRANTO IN HOYT CASE BEFORE JUDGE BELL TODAY

Lowell Seeks to Compel Former Sealer of Weights and Measures to Give Up Office

Decision of Court Will End Controversy Over Important Office Filled By Retiring Commissioners.

Quo warranto proceedings brought by Thomas J. Lowell, appointed sealer of weights and measures to take the place made vacant by the ousting of J. S. Hoyt, to compel Hoyt to hand over to him the property and equipment furnished him by the old board of county commissioners upon his original appointment, were heard this morning before Judge Bell in the court reserved decision.

Hoyt was appointed to the office of sealer of weights and measures the day before the old board of commissioners retired from office. When the new board of commissioners took office, they ousted Hoyt on the grounds that he was illegally appointed and that the appointive power had the right to remove an officer from office and appointed Mr. Lowell to fill the office.

Mr. Hoyt contended that the commissioners were not justified in their act and refused to surrender the office to the new appointee. After Mr. Hoyt refused to hand over the books and papers of the office to him, Mr. Lowell started the proceedings in court to test the title of the office.

In the hearing this morning, Mr. Lowell was represented by the county solicitors, Cole and Hartwick, and A. D. Woodward. Hoyt was represented by A. H. Libb, W. C. Miller and J. P. O'Leary.

L. C. Norris, clerk to the county commissioners was the chief witness at the hearing. He read the minutes of the meetings of the commissioners at which the matter pertaining to the removal of Hoyt was brought up.

Hoyt and appoint Mr. Lowell to fill the vacancy.

The court has handed down no decision in the case. It is expected that the decision will be given Monday morning before Judge Bell leaves for Bedford where he will preside over that county court during next week.

Wilson Firm Despite Pleading of Leaders of House and Senate

Germany May Abandon Position which Seems to Lead to War. Asks U. S. Now For Definition of Phrases

CONGRESS WILL NOT TAKE ACTION NOW

Washington, Feb. 25. (By United Press.)—Arguments by the Speaker, Clark, Democratic house leader, Kitchin and Chairman Flood of the house foreign affairs committee today failed to move President Wilson from his policy toward Germany. After nearly an hour's conference the President and the house leader are still under disagreement on the question of warning Americans to stay off armed merchantmen. That no action would be taken by congress today at least was the upshot of the conference.

London, Feb. 25. (By United Press.)—Germany in her reply to the latest representations from America asked the United States to define defensive armaments, according to an unconfirmed Amsterdam dispatch received here today. A reply it is stated is enroute to Washington and should be delivered to the American state department within 48 hours and possibly 24 hours.

Official circles here accepted the report as an indication that Germany does not want to break with America and is preparing to yield. The German foreign office, according to the Amsterdam report, asked the United States to specify what size of a gun it deems necessary for defense of its ports. In this matter, American state department the exact definition of offensive and defensive armament. This may prove embarrassing to owners of belated ships which have been entering American ports, the guns of which are comparatively large caliber.

The landing of the Pilgrims is celebrated at Plymouth in 1920, it will give people who visit that historic old town a chance to see it as it was 300 years ago. The Massachusetts state commission on the celebration visited here today and went over the 40 plans they have under consideration. At a meeting this afternoon the committee went over in detail all the plans they have set apart as practical and possible. A canvass of the members seems to indicate a general sentiment favoring the central feature of the celebration being a pageant at Plymouth, with a possible reproduction of it in Boston. Plans for a prize competition to be open to every artist in the country, for the production of new and finer examples of the major arts, are favored by the commission, and a prize of $10,000 for the best work probably will be offered. Wherever is finally decided it is certain that the original Plymouth town on Leyden Street will be reproduced, so those who come to the celebration may see Plymouth as it was when the Pilgrims landed there.

No one hates you with such unreasoning hatred as the man who covertly has done you injury.

Happy is the man who stored his car with its tummy full of fifteen cent gasoline.

The fellow who goes into raptures over the beauty of glistening, snow-covered trees and wires often is the most impatient at interrupted telephone or light service.

If when our late lamented press is junked and stored away
In some chilly scrap-heap, there to await its day
To go into the melting pot; if then some one would say,
"Write an epitaph for it; its cogs and wheels and grease."
We'd write a single, simple line: "May It Rust In Peace."

COME AND GIVE US THE "ONCE OVER."

As this column today is mainly about ourselves, it might just as well include an invitation to all our friends to visit The Progress in its new quarters opposite the post office. Most of the dirt has been cleared away, and a visit during the afternoon of any day, say about four o'clock, will give you a fairly good idea of how a newspaper is made. Come any day, at any time, and you will be most cordially welcome.

GOOD BOY, WOODROW.

The theory that some of our phantom statesmen are more concerned with conserving the hyphenated vote than they are with the honor and dignity of these United States of America impresses itself upon one with increasing force as senate and house leaders continue their importunities to the President to debase himself, his office and the people whose executive he is by warning Americans against venturing passage upon belligerent ships.

It will be to the everlasting credit of Woodrow Wilson if he meets this crisis within his own party as a man instead of as a Democrat; as a man who loves his country instead of a politician who sees only the main chance.

However large has loomed the doubt of Wilson's steadfastness and singleness of purpose, few have or will question the quality of his Americanism. Members of all parties will be proud of him as an American if he continues to hold out against the pusillanimous pleading of his fellow Democrats.

STRIKING THE HAPPY MEDIUM.

Three years ago The Progress started out with printing equipment entirely inadequate to a circulation which required more speed than is usually necessary in a country newspaper office. An old Cottrell flat bed press (which, of course, means nothing at all to the layman) struggled valiantly to put the paper out in time for early evening mails, and at the same time allow the forms to remain open to catch late local and telegraph news.

That condition was one extreme. Then we jumped heedlessly to the other by buying a second-hand high-speed Campbell rotary press, with stereotyping equipment and trouble concealed in every nut, gear and surface. With a possible speed of sixteen thousand per hour, this press was big enough for a circulation of twenty-five thousand. The stereotyping process, excellent when handled by expensive expert workmen, proved a failure in the hands of amateurs such as we were able to train here, and the final dismal failure of the Campbell is due as much to inexperience as it is to the condition of the machinery itself.

Now we have sent the Campbell off to the city, where it belongs. Our new equipment is what we believe to be the happy medium. It combines speed with simplicity and uniform excellence of product which can be kept uniform by pressmen who are not required to understand the intricacies of rotary machinery.

It is sincerely to be hoped that this is the happy medium. Experiment has been costly in money and in exhausting the patience of Progress readers and advertisers by turning out a faulty and unreadable newspaper. The press we now have is considered by those who know to be the ideal machine for newspapers of the size of The Progress. Of our own experience we know that it is dependable, and will produce a newspaper whose mechanical excellence can not be excelled by any newspaper press made.

So once again we are putting forth a strong effort to give Clearfield the kind of a newspaper the town deserves. It meant an investment of no inconsiderable sum of money, which was spent in full confidence that Clearfield wants a good, clean, wholesome newspaper that will be a credit to it at home and abroad. That is the kind of a paper we intend to produce—or measurably go broke in the attempt.

Today's Geographic Study of The Great European War Zone

The war in Mesopotamian lands has meant new interest to the many peoples and tribes in the great area immediately east of Suez. Even the Bedouins have come to figure in one way or another in the news of the hour. The National Geographic Society, of Washington, gives an interesting picture of their viewpoint upon the question of whether they are brigands and robbers or only a people enforcing laws which they have a right to make and execute. It says:

"Although the Bedouins claim themselves to be the descendants of Ishmael, whom the Angel of the Lord declared would be 'a wild man; his hand will be against every man, and every man's hand will be against him,' they declare themselves to be a peaceful people engaged only in collecting their legitimate dues from those who travel through their lands. While the hundreds of caravans which have been held up and deprived of their possessions will probably dissent from their view, that view is given here for what it is worth."

"The Bedouins contend that the desert is his land as much as America belongs to the Americans or England to the English. He reasons that he has as much right to levy a toll on all who travel his way as a Western government has to levy a tariff or to collect an excise tax.

"He contends that every caravan entering Bedouin territory can, by the payment of a proper fee, secure from the nearest Bedouin shiek a passport which will entitle it to safe passage through their territory. Failing to secure such a passport and to pay such a toll for the privilege of passing through the desert, the Bedouin asserts that the traveler puts in the same category with the smuggler, the bootlegger, and the moonshiner in our own country, and that his goods are as justly liable to confiscation as those of the smuggler and moonshiner in America."

"The Bedouins declare that the caravan owner not only can secure the right to pass through their territory, unmolested, but that he can even go further, and secure from them, for a proper fee, a nesceet which will protect him and his property while in the desert."

"Whether or not the viewpoint of the Bedouin in this matter is right is one of political theory and not of geographical fact. But whether right or wrong, the Bedouin, in his reasoning, in his history, and in his geographic situation, is only of the most interesting of all those whose lives have been affected by the great war."

Small Trachoma Hospitals Solution of Big Problem

The establishing of small trachoma hospitals in localities where this contagious disease of the eyes is prevalent presents the best solution of the trachoma problem, according to the statement contained in the annual report of the Surgeon General of the United States Public Health Service. The service now has five trachoma hospitals in the three states of Kentucky, Virginia and West Virginia, and so great has been the number of applicants for treatment that a waiting list has been established. In the past fiscal year 12,000 cases of trachoma have been treated, the larger portion of which were cured, while those in which a cure was not effected have been greatly improved and rendered harmless to their associates. The great majority of these trachoma patients were people who lived in remote sections far removed from medical assistance, and who, but for the hospital care and treatment provided would have remained victims of the disease practically the remainder of their lives.

"When it is considered," the report of the service states, "that thousands of persons suffering with trachoma, a dangerous contagious disease, would otherwise remain untreated, it is realized how far-reaching results have been obtained through these trachoma hospitals and the other public health work done in this connection. It would be impossible to estimate with any degree of accuracy the number of people who have been saved from contracting this communicable disease by thus removing these thousands of foci of infection."

In addition to treating persons with the disease the hospitals have been used for educational work. Doctors and nurses have visited the homes of the patients and have explained how to prevent the development and recurrence of the disease. One thousand, three hundred and eight such visits were made during the year in Kentucky alone. "It has taken some time," the report continues, "to educate the people afflicted with this disease to the importance of cleanliness and the use of simple hygienic measures in their daily life." That results have been obtained is evidenced by the noticeably better observance of hygienic precautions by those among whom the work has been done.

That results have been obtained is evidenced by the noticeably better observance of hygienic precautions by those among whom the work has been done.

In addition to the hospital work, surveys were made in 16 counties in Kentucky, especially among school children. Eighteen thousand and sixteen people were examined, 7 per cent. being found to have trachoma. Similar inspections in certain localities of Arizona, Alabama, and Florida resulted in finding the disease present in from three to six children out of every hundred. Periodic examination of school children for the disease and the exclusion of the afflicted from the public schools, are two of the recommendations the Public Health Service lays emphasis upon.

One of the special features of the trachoma work was the giving of lectures and clinics before medical societies in various counties where trachoma hospitals could not be established. Patients were operated upon in the presence of physicians and the most modern methods of treatment demonstrated. Throughout, the purpose has been to stimulate local interest in taking up the campaign to eradicate trachoma.

Fashion Hints By Margaret Mason

(Written For The United Press.)

At odds with the whole world you surely will be
If you don't don the odd looking things that you see
Now offered as fashionable "dernier cri."

New York, Feb. 25.—The odds and ends of the imminent sartorial season are bound to make both ends meet by making both ends odd. Just which end will be odder were hard to say since, though some of the hats are the quintessence, so too are some of the low down boots. Where a parasol is the height of novelty a pair of stockings may sound the depths of originality. A striking hand bag in the hand is offset by a lot of ruff stuff in the neck. Of all the mad conceits of a mad hatter the chapeau that has a life size chauntaleer, comb vattles and all roosting all over the crown and completely overshadowing the tiny turban brim, is undoubtedly the true poultry of millinery. Another quaint hat is shaped like a broad brimmed sailor with an under brim of straw and the upper part, crown and all, composed of inch wide grosgrain ribbons running from the edge of the brim to the top of the crown in alternating tints of old blue, old rose, yellow, purple and ecru. In the centre of the crown these ribbons come together in a long tassel of their own fringed lengths. A pair of shoes that absolutely kicks over all traces of conventionality is to be worn with an evening gown of violet net over an embroidered and spangled slip of green taffeta the shade of a tender young crocus shoot. The sensational boots are of violet kid with uppers of green taffeta ornately embroidered in sprays of spangled herbage. Stockings a mass of sequins up to the calf are odd stockings even if they do go in pairs. Another stocking that offers untold but not unwritten possibilities has your name, your favorite motto or pet expression embroidered in script on the instep. Why not have one's first name on the right stocking and the last name on the left? Think what a saving this would be of cards. One need only point her toes to be identified. Something new under the sun and over the daughter of Eve is a parasol of green edged in a vine of artificial rambler roses and leaves. Another one of Chinese yellow drops tiny blue tassels from the tip of each rib and has a tiny necklace of blue beads around the tip of its ferule. For a belle of fashion comes a bell of a bag. It is of silk and is ruffled out in the shape of a bell with a tassel at the end for a clapper. Undoubtedly this was designed for the woman who insists on carrying her rings in her hand bag. Up to her ears in ruffs and chokers of pastel tinted batiste is the spring maid and for here there is no escape from the cape of white or tatted batiste that starts as a collar and finishes down around the shoulders. It is called a nun collar and is unbecoming to none.

Don't Crowd Your Ad.

By GREEN.

Some advertisers make the mistake of trying to crowd a page of type into a few inches.

Display your ad. Make it catchy.

If you buy a few inches in a newspaper don't try to make them carry a couple of hundred words. Newspaper readers will not wear strong glasses to read small type.

When you decide to advertise a certain article pick out its best points. Then briefly tell what they are. Emphasize in big type.

Then you'll get results.

To The VotersIn Nearly Every Ward There Are Bitter Factional Fights—Election
Will go Long Way Toward Determining
Lead in State and National Politics.

Chicago, Feb. 25.—One of the bitterest political campaigns in Chicago in recent years is closing with the aspirants for office making their final appeals to the 750,000 men and women voters who will select their candidates for aldermen at the primary election to be held Tuesday.

In the thirty-five wards of the city there are a total of 234 candidates for the aldermanic nominations. In all but seven of the wards there are at least two Republican candidates, representing the rival factions of the party. On the Republican side alone eighty-six men and one woman have entered the lists. On the Democratic ticket there are eighty-four candidates. The Socialists have thirty-two, including one woman, and a single loyal Progressive is in the running.

In all but eight or ten of the wards there are bitter factional feuds. Voters in the primaries are expected also to decide by their votes whether Mayor Thompson and his following are to be endorsed or the faction led by ex-Gov. Deneen put back into power. On the Democratic side the old rivalry between Roger Sullivan and ex-Mayor Carter H. Harrison for the party leadership is the dominant issue. It is expected that in the case of both the Republicans and the Democrats the results of the primaries will go a long way toward determining who shall have the lead in state and national politics.

In the first ward, which has been represented for more than twenty years by John J. Coughlin, popularly known as "the Bathhouse," and "Hinky Dink" McKenna, it is Coughlin's turn to stand for re-election. He will receive the Democratic nomination without opposition. On the Republican side William H. Schrader is contesting for the nomination with Hilda Johnson Haskins. Mrs. Haskins is putting up a spirited fight and she declares that if she wins the nomination she will lead "the Bathhouse" the fastest race that he has ever experienced in his whole career as a politician.

Big Business
Recognizes
Publicity.

By BREEN.

In latter years the biggest enterprises in this country have recognized the value of advertising. The men in charge of their advertising campaigns are paid splendid salaries. In fact, no branch of the business receives more attention. Publicity and advertising form the keynote of success.

If big business needs advertising doesn't small business need it?

Every man in business needs advertising. If his business is a success he needs advertising to keep it so. If his business is struggling liberal advertising will build it up.

STATE AIDS COUNTRY DOCTORS

The state has come to the aid of the country doctor. The hard-working practitioner in the rural districts, who travels innumerable miles over country roads in all kinds of weather to reach his patients by night or by day, has long served as an example of the overworked and underpaid professional man.

The rapid strides in modern medicine have made the laboratory an absolutely necessary aid to the physician. Doctors in the larger cities have easy access to laboratory facilities. The expense of equipment and the necessity for special training in laboratory work makes it impossible for the country doctor to maintain his own laboratory; at the same time he and his patients should be able to benefit by all that science can do.

Realizing this condition, Dr. Samuel G. Dixon, commissioner of health, has opened the state laboratory to the rural doctor for numerous classes of examinations, which are made without charge to the physician. Special containers for the shipment of specimens are provided by the State Department of Health and these are supplied to all physicians on request.

The value of thus placing the doctor in the rural districts on the basis with his city brother and giving him free access to a modern laboratory, has proved of the utmost value not only in the diagnosis and cure of existing cases, but in preventing the infection of others.

Jubilee Will Make Commencement A Notable Occasion

South Bethlehem, Pa., Feb. 25.—Untouched by age, save a tone has added vigor and strength, Lehigh University can now contemplate "the splendid harvest of fifty years." A half-century of active work is rounding out and fitting observance of the golden jubilee will render the commencement season a notable occasion this year. Exercises commemorating the anniversary will be held the first week of June. A feature will be the reunion of the various classes from 1870 down to 1916.

Fifty years ago this month the Pennsylvania legislature passed an act incorporating Lehigh University. The founder of the university was Asa Packer, who began life as a poor boy and became a millionaire through his foresight in building adequate transportation lines to carry the coal from Lehigh Valley to market.

When in 1865 Mr. Packer gave $500,000 and 36 acres of land for the founding of a university in the Lehigh Valley, this was the largest gift that had ever offered to an educational institution. The purpose of the donor was to afford an advanced technical education free of charge. Ten years after his first gift he enlarged the domain of the university

Prospects Are Bright For 1916 Season as There Is Harmony Among Players

Team Stands Solidly Behind Manager Fohl--All Players are Determined to End Better This Coming Season Than They Did Last Year.

Cleveland, Feb. 25.—(By United Press.)—With the departure of some from here within the next 48 hours and the arrival at New Orleans of others already on their way, the Cleveland Indians will be ready Feb. 29 to sail into a month's stringent practice for the 1916 season. Heaven knows they need it. The in and out fielders will start work the 29th. For the last week eleven pitchers and four catchers have been limbering up at New Orleans under the direction of Manager Leo Fohl, who will start his second season as manager this year, and Ray Chapman, short-stop. Several things stand out prominently this year which augur well for the team. For the first time in years there is harmony within the club, players with quarrelsome attributes having been eliminated. The team stands solidly behind Fohl. The club is practically intact, and much new material taken on last year is somewhat seasoned, making possible, with the expected addition of three new players, a team that will play with pep and doggedness. The men are determined to finish better than they did last year, when they landed in 7th place.

place. The team needs one more good pitcher, a second-string catcher, a second baseman and a third sacker. The addition of players to strengthen those spots would bolster the Indians into a first division team. It would be no surprise to fandom if Chick Gandil, Washington's first baseman, were added to the team, allowing Jay Kirtke to go to the outfield. Harry Turner, crack utility infielder, probably will hold down second as usual, but he is so susceptible to injury that a good sub will have to be developed or purchased. Bill Wambagann, a youngster, looked good at the second sack last season and he may be used as relief for Turner. Walter Barabere is expected to start at third, as he worked well there last season. Joe Evans is fast around the third corner but inexperience may prevent his holding the job there except in emergencies.

Jack Graney, sun fielder and pinch hitter, will do garden work as usual, barring a recurrence of bad legs. Elmer Smith and Bobby Roth are other fielders who may land regular berths. The outfield is not particularly strong. Al Colanore and Willie Mitchell, southpaw, are the chief standbys on the hurling force, with Steve O'Neill, veteran receiver. Aside from three games to be played with the Cincinnati Reds, the Indians will play no teams before the season opens. The barnstorming trip northward has been abandoned. The club consists of thirty men at present. There may not be so many a few weeks from now.

Pity the Man Who Doesn't Advertise!

By ETEEN.

"I have an established business. I don't require advertising."

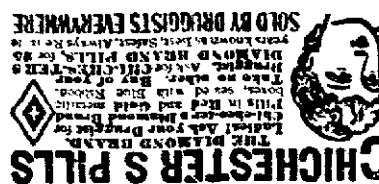

That is the answer of some self satisfied man to a request for advertising. Meanwhile his progressive neighbor is using printer's ink lavishly.

The result is obvious. It's only a question of time. The self satisfied business man soon finds his trade disappearing. His progressive neighbor goes ahead with leaps and bounds. Every business, no matter how firmly established, needs advertising. If it isn't advertised it soon will be in a rut. Don't get in a rut. Advertise.
